

Grace Cadigan, a senior at Delaware Valley High School, was recently crowned Homecoming Queen. But there is more to Cadigan than just the crown. She is a three-sport varsity athlete (field hockey, basketball and lacrosse) who makes the time to be a standout student in the classroom as well.

Cadigan is also a member of Student Council, Junior Historians, Orchestra and Chorus. “Being involved with school-related activities helped me meet a lot of new people and helped me learn how to manage my time,” she said. Cadigan coaches youth basketball, lacrosse and field hockey in her spare time. She has also been on the Relay for Life committee for the past two years. This busy senior also finds time to volunteer for Pennies for Patients, the Pike County Humane Society and United Way’s Day of Caring. “Volunteer work has made me a better leader,” Cadigan said. “It also gives me great satisfaction when I help out for a great cause.”

Delaware Valley senior soccer goalie Troy Smith is the epitome of a dedicated student-athlete. Along with being a two-sport athlete (varsity soccer and basketball), Smith is a member of Mu Alpha Theta and FBLA. Last year he finished in first place at the regional level for FBLA in banking and financial systems. “Being involved in activities has gotten me more involved in school spirit and led me to meet new people,” Smith said. On the soccer field, Smith has six shutouts in nine games, and he has only allowed three goals. “Troy is one of our work horses on the team,” head coach Aaron Stark said. “He seems to make things look much easier than they really are because he is so athletic. He is a true competitor on and off the field.” Smith also volunteers for the United Way, Relay for Life and Leo’s Club. “I want to be remembered as someone who made a difference in our school’s history,” Smith said. “Also, I want to be known for contributing to part of our school’s winning ways in the classroom and on the field.”
