

Only a sophomore at Delaware Valley, Mikaela Edelman is making her presence known. Edelman is a member of the Drama Club and is playing “Belle” in this year’s production of “Beauty and the Beast.” She is also a member of Student Council and chorus. “I like being involved in different groups and it has given me opportunities to try new and different things,” she said.

“I have been able to make some great friendships.” Edelman is also a volunteer for Relay for Life and United Way’s Day of Caring. “Volunteering has allowed me to give back to the community,” she said. “I find it to be very rewarding.” Edelman wants to be remembered as a student who was really involved in school, as someone who was friendly, hardworking, and passionate about my interests and future.

Delaware Valley cheerleader Casey Weatherly is a standout student athlete. Weatherly is an active member of the varsity football cheerleading squad and the varsity competition cheerleading squad. “Casey is one of the most hard working athletes whom I have ever had the opportunity to coach,” said head cheerleading coach Jen Simonsen. “She is focused and positive which makes her an outstanding leader.” Off the mats,

Weatherly is a member of National Honor Society and Mu Alpha Theta. “Being involved has helped me become a leader and has allowed me to be more involved in my school,” she said. For four years, Weatherly has volunteered her time at United Way’s Day of Caring event held every fall. “It gave me a sense of accomplishment helping out people who really benefitted from a couple of extra hands for a few hours,” she said. Weatherly will be attending William Paterson University in the fall.
