

Kyle Brown, a senior at Delaware Valley High School, is a standout drama student. Brown is currently the president of the Drama Club and will be the lead in the upcoming spring musical Beauty and the Beast. He is also a nine-year member of band and an eight-year member of chorus. He is also a part of the Political Awareness Club, Glee Club, and serves on the prom committee. “Being involved has helped me appreciate the time and dedication myself and others put into growing the Warrior Pride we have at DV,” he said. He volunteers for the local food pantry, the Pike County library, and Country Arc farms. “Volunteer work has shown me a fun way of giving my time to benefit others and work together,” Brown said. Brown would like to be remembered as a Warrior who, just like everyone else, did a lot to show their Warrior Pride for their school.

Junior Rian Fowler knows how to compete in the pool, on the track, and in the classroom. Fowler is a track and field state qualifier and a 1st place district winner in the 400 meter dash. He is also a swimming team district winner. He is also a Future Business Leaders of America national qualifier. He placed 3rd in the state. “Being involved has allowed me to work with staff and teammates to achieve success and represent my school,” he said. Fowler volunteers his time at the Warrior Festival and United Way’s Day of Caring. “Volunteering allows me to volunteer my time to help those who are less fortunate,” he said. “I enjoy providing a helping hand to other organizations.” Fowler wants to be remembered for his high honors. He also wants people to remember him for his successful after-school activities.
